

Donovan Jests At Javits Plea

James B. Donovan, Democratic Liberal candidate for U. S. Senator against the incumbent Republican, Jacob K. Javits, jokingly declined yesterday an appeal for a campaign contribution for Sen. Javits. It came from Benjamin Javits, the Senator's older brother, who noted that the Senator needed $500,000 and had raised only $150,000.

Mr. Donovan said he had spent only $165 on his own nomination. "I know you will appreciate that a possible conflict of interest requires my declining your invitation," he replied.
